1. THE SEMINAR

The International Seminar of the Spanish Air and Space Force (SpAF) aims to promote knowledge, research and dissemination of military aerospace thinking and doctrine.

The XXXV edition will take place from 10NOV26 to 13NOV26, at the facilities of the Headquarters of the SpAF (CGEA/HQ).

The activities of the Seminar and its Closure will be held at the Air and Space Warfare Centre (AWC) and the HQ Main Hall.

English will be the working language in all Working Group (WG) meetings (10NOV26 and 11NOV26) and the Closing session (13NOV26).

2. TOPIC OF THE SEMINAR

The selected topic for this edition is:

The operational domain of cyberspace and aerospace power

In July 2016, on the occasion of the Warsaw Summit, NATO recognized cyberspace as an operational domain, in which, or through which, military operations can be planned and carried out. Over these ten years, the combination of digital technologies and artificial intelligence capabilities (Tech & AI) has evolved exponentially, giving cyberspace a central and cross-cutting role that exceptionally affects freedom of action in all domains.

Mainly due to the extraordinary digitization of weapons systems, space systems, and command and control, this dynamic represents a turning point, since it is no longer possible to consider air, space, and cyberspace as separate planes, but rather as a continuous interaction between them. This interaction gives rise to a new center of gravity: the ability to create real operational power at the intersection formed by the Air-Space-Cyberspace triad.

The purpose of the event is to be a forum for strategic reflection on how data, artificial intelligence, connectivity and talent are reshaping aerospace operations.

Defence leaders, experts from allied nations, industry and academia will share perspectives to identify risks, strengths and concrete actions in response to accelerating technological change.

3. GENERAL LAYOUT

The format of the XXXV International Seminar of the SpAF will consist of:

- Two daily Working Group (seminar attendees) sessions until lunchtime (coffee break in between) on Tuesday and Wednesday.

PANELISTS	Spanish Joint Staff NATO CCDCOE (TBC) NATO CyOC (TBC)
PANEL 5
Transformation, governance and interoperability
MODERATOR	Spanish Operations Command (MOPS)
PANELISTS	Cyberspace officials from allied countries
KEYNOTE SPEAKER
Present and Future of the Operational Domain of Cyberspace
SPEAKER	Spanish Joint Cyberspace Command

It is expected that, in the eighty minutes allocated to each panel, the moderator will give a brief introduction and then pose some basic questions to get the panelists going, whose interventions will last around ten minutes. Afterwards, there will be a Q&A session with the audience.

Panel 4 focus: Thinking about cyberspace in armed conflict requires going beyond a purely technological view. It makes you consider things like decision-making space, doctrine, agility, resilience, mission assurance, ethics, and international law, among others.

Panel 5 focus: The air forces of allied countries are likewise deeply involved in their own Tech & AI adoption processes. Comparing approaches, identifying common challenges, and drawing useful lessons on how to build more integrated, effective, agile, and adaptable organizations is an essential aspect for meeting the current demands of joint-combined operations.
